Dear Robert,

Many times in our industry we are usually faced with the day to day issues such as problem solving, timing crunches, and delays that arise, that it always seems that these are the issues we deal with and focus on in our business relationship. Far too often we never take the time to appreciate and acknowledge the hard work and dedication that some contractors demonstrate. The most recent jobs you have done for us were both challenging and rewarding. Thanks for operating a professional and knowledgeable group of personnel in your organization. For the past 4 years you have taken the stress out of "getting it right" on the foundation side of my business. Thanks again for all that you do and please let Jake know that he is much appreciated as well. I look forward to many more years together and building on our current relationship.

Regards,
